Deadlines approach; workshop offered

Deadlines are approaching for students who are receiving A.A. degrees or transferring and Hartnell is offering a test preparation workshop for prospective college students.

April 30 is the deadline for students who will be transferring or receiving their A.A. degree from Hartnell.

All students who expect to receive an A.A. degree from Hartnell must fill out an application form in the admissions office.

If a student plans to transfer to a four year school, he or she must fill out a request to have General Education requirements evaluated. This will be included on your final transcript. Forms are in the admissions office.

April 30 is also the deadline to file a petition for evaluations.

These petitions are necessary for students who wish to graduate in June and for students who plan to transfer to a four-year college in the fall.

Forms for the petition are available in the Admissions Office.

Hartnell College is offering a test preparation workshop designed to give prospective college students an edge on College Entrance Exams.

Mathematics, reading comprehension, sentence completion analogies, and antonyms sections of the exam will be covered in the course. Important test-taking strategies and time-saving techniques will be introduced. Students will be given a number of short-form tests as practices for actual testing conditions.

The workshop will be held in the Hartnell College governing board room April 21 and 28, 9 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. The fee is $45 per student and will cover all materials needed.

For registration and further information, call the Office of Community Services at Hartnell College, 758-8211, ext. 422.

'Robber Bridegroom' opens at Hartnell theatre in May

More than trees grow in the backwoods: some tall tales have sprung up there too.

One such yarn, "The Robber Bridegroom," has been set to music and will play at Hartnell May 4 through 12.

There will be a special preview performance Thursday, May 3 at 8 p.m. in the main theatre. Tickets for that performance will be $1.50.

Other performances are at 8 p.m. May 4, 5, 11, and 12. There will be a matinee performance at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 6. Tickets for these performances are $3.50 adults, $2.50 students. Tickets may be obtained by calling 758-1221.

Michael Reed will play the role of Jamie Lockhart, the gentleman robber; Ester Harp will play Rosamond, his true love. Robert Fogg will play Rosamond's father and Pat Horsley will portray the damsel's step-mother.

The story tells of a robber, living in the forest who falls in love with the daughter of a rich planter. Eudora Welty wrote the original novella from which Alfred Uhry wrote the book and lyrics. Music is by Robert Waldman.

Locally, Ron Danko is the stage director, Dennis Port is vocal director and Yvonne Crane is the musical director.

Choreography is by Olga Drumev and scene design is by Stanley R. Crane.

$500 awaits scholarship winners

Students who would like $500 may have their wish granted, if they file by April 23 — and if they are qualified.

Three $500 scholarships are being offered to students graduating from high schools and community colleges. The money is offered by the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Kappa Gamma Omega Chapter.

Recipients are chosen on the basis of scholastic achievement, financial need, and participation in community and extra-curricular activities.

Applicants must be eligible for graduation by June, 1979; must have at least a 2.5 grade point average in community college; must enter a four-year college in 1979-80; and must be in need of financial aid.

To apply, students should complete the application form, available from the Office of Special Student Services, C-160A. Deadline to apply is April 23.

Auction features varied goodies

Everything but the kitchen sink will be up for sale when Hartnell auctions off its surplus equipment and supplies at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 21.

MEChA slates films

Students of Hartnell will be treated to a Cuban Epic of Love and Revolution at a free presentation of the film "Lucia" sponsored by the MEChA club. Also showing is Charlie Chaplin's "The Tramp".

The screening will take place Friday, April 20, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in PA 125.

It will be held in the yard behind the Technology building.

On sale will be office furniture; ranging from chairs, heaters, teletypes and cabinets to T.V. cameras and control panels. Twenty-four typewriters of various types will be sold, as will two alarm bells, a milk shake machine and a mixer.

Also on sale are "fire damaged" boxes of paper, envelopes and carbon of many sizes and colors.

Questions concerning the sale should be directed to maintenance and operations manager, John Totten.

Teachers hand in resignations

Three Hartnell instructors will not be returning next fall.

Drafting teacher Dave Henise turned in his resignation, approved by the Hartnell governing board April 3.

Learning Resources Director Larry Latimer, and English and German instructor Dr. Karen Larsen sent Hartnell Superintendent/President

Dr. Gibb R. Madsen letters of resignation. They were read to the board Tuesday evening.

Dr. Larsen has accepted a full professorship at Liberty Baptist College in Lynchburg, Va. Latimer intends to become a consultant for corporations' in house training programs.

Editorial: Tell us how you feel

Seventeen issues of the Panther Sentinel have hit the stands since last September. Those issues were filled with stories about disagreements on campus, sports events, dances, parties, achievements, interesting people. Some articles in those issues made people angry. At other times, people were pleased by what they read.

Sometimes putting out this paper is hit-or-miss operation: we know what we consider to be newsworthy; but how do we know if our readers agree? Often we don't know, because people don't think to complain directly to us. (They don't think to praise us directly, either.)

In order to give you, our readers, the chance to communicate directly with us, we have printed the little form you see above. You can tell us what we're doing right, and what we're doing wrong, by filling out the form and sending it back to us. Forms may be brought to the Panther Sentinel office, Visual Arts Facility, Room 209. Or you may place your form in an envelope marked Panther Sentinel and drop the envelope in the "on-campus" mailbox in the room next to the switchboard.

Letters to the editor

Members of the Hartnell community are encouraged to use the "letters to the editor" column to voice their opinions on any subject. Letters of more than 300 words are subject to editing by the Panther Sentinel. Each letter must be signed with the writer's true name. Letter writers must include a phone number (not to be published) so that staffers can verify the letter. Address letters to: Editor, Hartnell Panther Sentinel, Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas, CA 93901.

Plastered Platters

by Doc Moseley

Cheap Trick: "Cheap Trick at Budokan" (Epic FE 35795).

The title of the album fits. It's a cheap trick to play on the people who have been caught in the zany mystique of the first three Cheap Trick discs, all studio recordings.

The problem is trying to figure out who to blame for the prideless sound; the remote recording engineer at the April, 1978 Tokyo concert, or those who did the final mixing and mastering. (Jay Messina and Jack Douglas are responsible for the sound, and neither are slouches in the music reproduction business. Mixing was handled at New York's Record Plant, one of the finest facilities in the country.)

Nevertheless, therein lies the glaring fault with Cheap Trick's first live LP. The recording is, at best, horrible. One might get the idea that the band and/or its management intended the release strictly for the purposes of saying, "See, we're popular." This comes from the fact that the most audible sound is far and away that of thousands of screaming Japanese teenyboppers, as if this were the Beatles on the Ed Sullivan Show in 1964.

The band doesn't come off all that well, either. Robin Zander's normally listenable, sometimes classic voice behaves as if it's been on a three-month tour for seven months.

Two new songs are introduced on side one, "Look Out" and "Need Your Love." The former is, well, tolerable, but the latter is 9:07 of bacon grease.

The flip side warms up a bit, but only after suffering through a blasphemous attempt at Fats Domino's "Ain't That A Shame." It is, it is.

As could be expected, they saved the best (such as it is) for last. The encore of "Clock Strikes Ten" is done with as much drive as on the studio version and, if the recording were better, could be considered superior to the original.

But here's the real kick in the tush, getting down to basics: Until the cellophane is torn away, you're fooled into thinking you get a double album. No so. One half of the jacket contains a portfolio with picture (black and white, even) of the group and the lyrics to all the songs (are you ready?) in English and Japanese.

And it can be all yours for only $6.98 through this special ripoff. Ain't that a shame?

State views bills

A package of four bills designed to improve California Community College education and assure its status and financing in the post-proposition 13 era has been put before the California Legislature.

The first bill, AB 1548, will provide a new post-proposition 13 mechanism for financing the 104 community colleges. Prior to 13's passage colleges were funded by local property taxes. Now the state pays 70 percent of their total revenue.

The second bill, AB 1550, addresses current inequities between full-time and part-time instructors. Part-time instructors, who teach one third of the time will get a full range of academic services. This bill would require an evaluation of part-time teachers (compared to that of full time teachers).

AB 1551 provides for full membership and voting rights for the student member of the community college boards of trustees. This has already been extended for Maria Barrs, Hartnell's student representative.

The fourth bill, AB 1549, repeals or amends some of the 270 sections of the State Education Code which determine the powers of the Board of Governors and the Chancellor's Office of the California Community Colleges.

Gas crunch unfunny

"It's a long way to Tipperary," is the way an old song goes. That old song could be sung "It's a long way to anywhere" now that the gas crunch has hit us.

Shortages are not funny, but sometimes people react in funny ways to a shortage. Locally, the response to the petrol deficiency has been "I'd rather pay $2 a gallon than inconvenience myself." However, we can't buy our way out of the fact that the supply of petroleum is finite: it will end whether we pay $2 a gallon or 20 cents. By cutting back on our consumption of oil products, we can delay the inevitable, perhaps until alternative energy sources are found.

Schools to be consolidated?

A bill designed to consolidate the University of California system with all state colleges and community colleges under one governing board of regents was introduced to the California State Senate on Jan. 23.

The bill, SB 252, was presented by Senator Alfred Alquist (D-Alameda) and is directed towards bringing increased efficiency and economy to the administration of higher education in the state. Under the bill, the new board would operate wards bringing increased efficiency and economy to the administration of higher education in the state. Under the bill, the new board would operate with a system of regional councils in formulating policies for all colleges and universities in the state.

Nine student commission seats on May ballot

Nine seats on the student governing body will be up for election for next year's fall term May 22 and 23.

Petitions for candidates are available at the Associated Students of Hartnell College (ASHC) office, located in the back of the student lounge. Deadline for filing is noon, May 21.

Prospective candidates must be carrying nine units at Hartnell, and have a cumulative grade point average of 2.0.

The seats of president and vice-president are on the ballot. Four senatorial positions and the commissioners of spring activities, communication and student facilities are to be filled. Also up for election is the student representative seat on the governing board.

Elected officers will serve the school year 1979-80, with the exception of senatorial positions. Senators will hold office a semester.

ASHC rep voted activities director

Student commission member Kenny Johnson has been elected director of activities for 13 Area IV colleges.

He was voted into office at a California Community College Student Government Association conference, held April 7, 8, and 9 in San Jose.

Running on a "communication" platform, Johnson was elected by five

Commissioner of fall activities Leon Vernon will retain his office until spring elections next year. Appointments for the offices of secretary and the commissioners of finance and communications will be made by the newly elected body.

of the eight colleges present. As part of his duties, he will attend area meetings.

Johnson is the newly appointed commissioner of finance for the Associated Students of Hartnell College (ASHC).

Part of the Hartnell delegation were ASHC members Michael Ross and Leon Vernon.

Potters putter in pool: clay ships sink

by Scott Schultz

What was the First Annual Greenware Regatta?

Don't feel bad if you have no answer, many Hartnell students won't.

If you find a person from a Hartnell pottery class however, he'll not only know what it was, but will probably talk your ear off on the subject.

In essence, the Regatta was a clay boat float-off with a difference, the difference being that the boats were made of unfired clay. For the uninitiated: unfired or "green" clay dissolves in water. The object of the Regatta was to see which boat would float the longest. It was held on March 27, at 7 p.m., in the Hartnell pottery lab.

The regatta was the brainchild of Mark Eaton, a Hartnell pottery teacher, and Doug Robinson, graphic artist-photographer for the library. "We were just sitting around one night and the idea popped into my head to do something nuts," Eaton said. In the next pottery class he had, Eaton told his class to make boats, thinking that they would just "slap together some real cruddy things." Instead, he found that most of the designs were very complex with some even requiring pre-drawn plans. "It was just incredible how elaborate they got," he said.

Eaton said that the school pool was the first choice for the event but decided the administration wouldn't like the idea too much. The organizers opted for something less elaborate. They settled on an inflatable wading pool on the floor of the pottery lab.

While the location was less than inspiring, the three trophies Eaton made for the Regatta were anything but. Awards were handed out for best design, "most outrageous sinker," and the last one to sink. Each was a large clay cup about two feet high with a small sculpture on the lid. "I did get a little carried away with the trophies" Eaton admitted.

Almost all of the participants were first or second level pottery students. Their entries ranged from a hydroplane, to a torpedo, to Noah's Ark, complete with animals. A small group of 15 to 20 people watched as the boats were put in the pool. Most sank immediately and turned the water a dirty grey as they crumbled on the bottom. Many students took advantage of the no rules rule and put a coat of wax on the hulls of their boats. "I put it on mine," said Kelley McGeorge, "everyone else did."

After about an hour and a half, there was finally only one boat left in the water. It belonged to Leora Trafton. She won the Titanic award for the longest afloat. Doug Robinson captured the Edmund Fitzgerald award for the best sinking after he set the newspaper inside his boat on fire. The best design trophy was awarded to Pam Blackwell for her Spanish Galleon. It boasted intricate detail work that included a railing, portholes, and even a small cabin in the stern.

Sorry you missed all the action? Wish you could have seen it? You can, thanks to the resources Robinson had on hand. The entire Greenware Regatta was recorded on videotape and is available on request in the audiovisual office. So if you have an extra hour and a half, take a trip to the office. And if someone asks, you'll know what the Greenware Regatta is.

Board hears arguments over budget

Disagreements over budget priorities continue following the April 3 governing board meeting. Additionally, Maria Barr's position as student representative to the board is now official.

Disagreement surfaced at the meeting over how to determine what will go and what must stay in this school's restricted budget.

The primary rift is between those who feel the administration should be the sole deciding body, and those who feel a broader consensus should be reached.

At the center of this issue is the role of the Budget Review Task Force. The suggestion was made that the work done by this committee is insufficient and vague. One member of the budget review committee, Barney Muldoon, commented that he, at least, would be willing to go back and rework the committee's recommendations.

In response Dean of Instruction Larry Elder said, "I recommend that we do not go back to committee. I recommend that Dr. Madsen direct the Dean of Student Services and myself to apply these criteria."

At the same meeting Dr. Madsen announced that the Student Representative on the Board had never been properly sworn in.

Trustee Schwefel commented wryly that the Board should vote to ratify all of Ms. Barr's previous actions, whereby Ms. Barr shot back, "All that you know of."

The Board approved the budget for the student government and discussed the needs and problems of foreign students on campus.

Our Promise To You 'We Service What We Sell'

202 North Main St.
Salinas
Phone 422-9336

by Sheila E. Toner

The FOB is being turned into the AHT center.

To the average student, that may sound like alphabet soup, but to the 10 students in the Animal Health Technology (AHT) program, it's the culmination of two years' struggle.

As evidence of that dream-come-true, the old Faculty Office Building on the north (Central Avenue) side of campus is being converted into a center for the AHT program. As nearly as possible, the building will resemble a modern veterinary hospital, complete with reception area, X-ray, surgery room, and post-operative rooms.

The program, one of the few veterinary technician programs in the state, was designed by Dr. Morris Barenfus, D.V.M. Barenfus came to Hartnell in 1977 to teach Animal Health Technology.

Since his arrival here, he has discussed many possibilities concerning a facility for the AHT program. "We looked at the temporary buildings, we even went so far as to look at situations on the (athletics) field, he recalls.

Gradually, he says, the idea of using the FOB for the program crept into people's thinking. "It became kind of a fortunate compromise."

Untouched, the FOB was, of course, unsuitable for what Barenfus had in mind. The building itself used to be a dormitory and is therefore divided up into several individual cubicles. For a hospital-like set-up, it became necessary to expand some rooms, create inter-connecting doors in others and install more plumbing. Add to that the federal requirement that buildings funded with federal monies must provide access for handicapped persons, and it quickly becomes apparent that a remodeling job was in order.

Although the original estimate cited $215,000 for the remodeling job plus building a vivarium (enclosure for keeping and raising animals for research), later estimates rose to $300,000 for the remodeling job alone. Architect Jerome Kasavan says the final figure is $289,729. The vivarium is to be built on the east campus.

Kasavan says the reason for the difference between the original estimate and the final figure is the unexpected costs he must deal with as an architect. "You start out with a very sketchy thing," he says, "and as you go on, you try to guess at the end product."

For example, the FOB was built in the days before there were laws requiring that public buildings provide access to handicapped people. By law, any remodeling must provide that access. "We needed three-phase (a type of electrical current) because that's what the elevator requires. So we had to put in extra distribution."

More light fixtures than originally planned for were also required.

Kasavan says that many agencies are involved in building a school building. "In California, there is Title XXI, the earthquake code," he says, "Then the Department of Education and the Department of Finance are interested in what you're doing. The handicapped (agencies) check your plans." All of these agencies affect the length of time it takes to get a job done, he says.

Now that the remodeling is nearly finished, though, Barenfus has many ideas on using the building's structure to implement his unique program.

"The curriculum has been adapted to fit the real-life, on-the-job simulation," he says. For example, "the building has a built-in reception area — the students can role-play doctor and pet owner. Then the old security office (campus security) will be a record area. Also," he continues, "FOB-A will be like a lecture hall/demonstration area."

Barenfus plans to have the students break up into small groups and practice an activity in each of the rooms. When there is some demonstration or speaker that will be of interest and value to the classes as a whole, they will attend in the lecture hall.

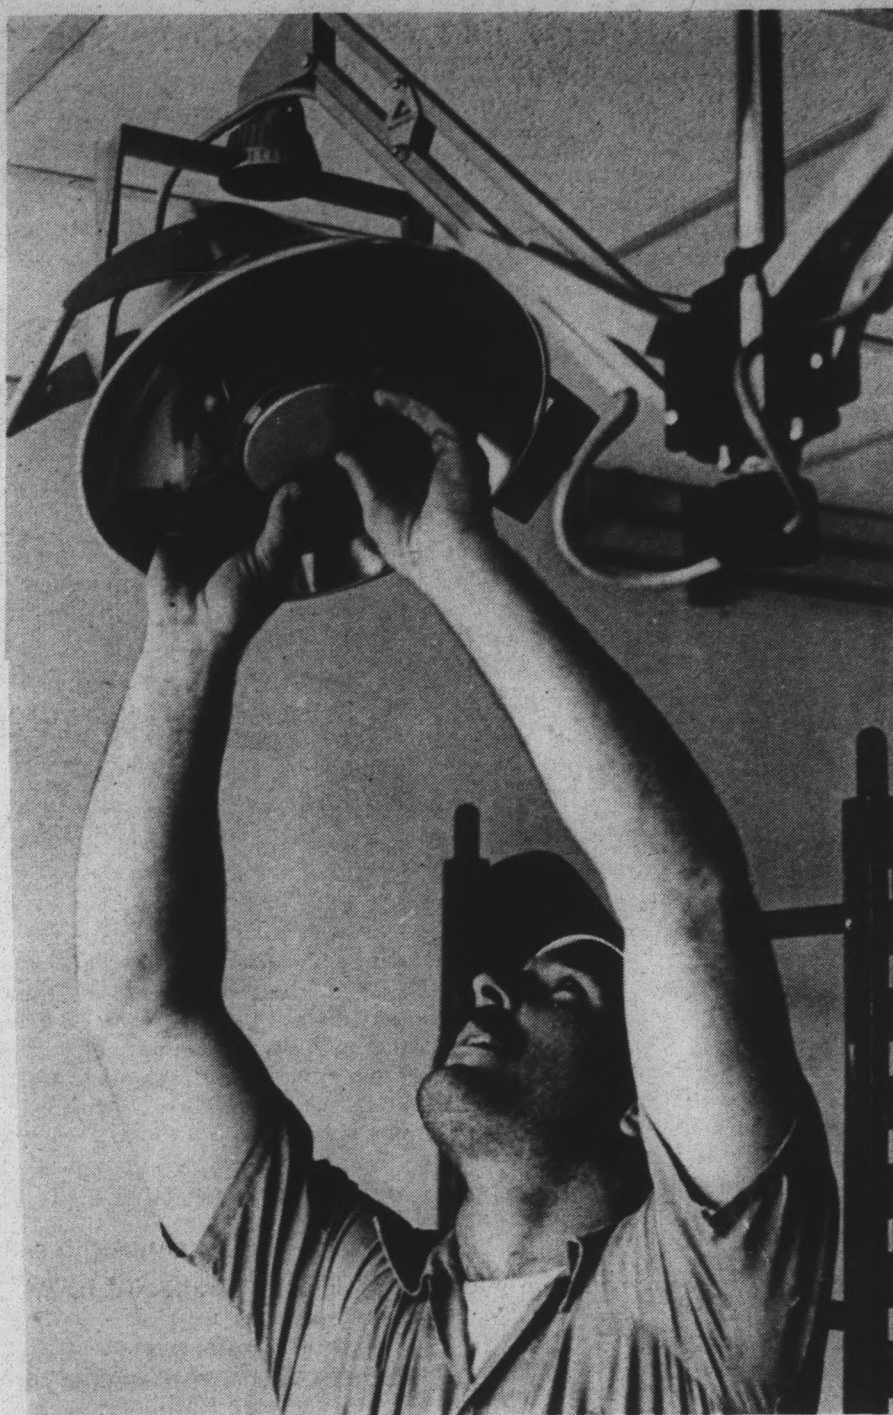

Already, those students who have been taking the pre-requisites for the AHT classes have gone to watch demonstration of techniques in the offices of various local veterinarians.

"This has potential: it could really be a challenge," Barenfus says. "If it works out, it could promise to be one of the really interesting programs on campus." Barenfus says he and other faculty and administrators involved in the project will "work with it for two years." Then the program will be reviewed, to determine if and how it is working.

At the moment, according to Barenfus, there is no lack of students interested in the program. "We have 50 people vying for 24 positions," he says.

Originally, 80 students showed interest in such a program: 10 of them stuck with it over the past two years. Now there is a new group. "We have deliberately not accepted students formally for the program," says Barenfus. This was because no one was certain that there would be a program. "This spring we will have interviews with people who have taken the pre-requisites," Barenfus says.

For now, "We are getting the optimal use of that building," Barenfus says.

Student officers cut, add to spring budget

After several months of discussion, the student governing body has approved budget revisions for the spring of '79.

The largest adjustment on the re-divisions: men's open, intermediate, masters' (for men over 40), women's open and women's novice. Fees are $8 singles, $12 doubles. Each entrant will receive a free T-shirt.

"Is it Possible to Keep the Spark?" will be the question posed by social science instructor James ("Barney") Muldoon when he speaks at the Evening Lecture Series Thursday, April 26.

Evening Lecture Series begins at 6 p.m. and is held in C-315.

Help is as close as the telephone for students in vocational education who need information or legal assistance because of sex discrimination.

A toll-free hotline has been set up to deal with this type of problem. The number is (800) 352-6578. Hours of operation are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

venue side came in the areas of speakers and dances; both received budget cuts. The account of speakers was chopped $1,000, a decrease from the $2,000 proposed initially by the body. From $3,500, the account of dances was decreased $800. Added as new accounts on the revenue sheet were the juke box, allotted $600, and the literary/art journal, allotted $1,000.

The speakers account faced the biggest cut on the expenditure sheet, being nipped $1,275. Conference and organization dues were cut $1,000. Movies suffered a $500 decrease, while noon concerts, advertising and printing, and public relations were raised $500. Added as new accounts on the expenditures side were the juke box and the literary/art journal. The account of dances received the biggest budget increase, being raised from $5,000 to $6,400.

Expenditures and revenue each totaled $21,300 for a balanced budget.

The Associated Students of Hartnell College (ASHC) will submit their revised budget to the governing board for approval.

briefly...

Have you thanked your secretary today?

April 22 through 28 is National Secretaries Week, which might be a good time to show a secretary that they are appreciated.

The Future Secretaries Association of Hartnell College is taking this opportunity to invite all secretarial students to join up.

For information contact Mrs. Crawford in the business Department, ext. 439.

People of the Hartnell drama department aren't acting this time: they need housing for summer theatre personnel.

Rooms, apartments or houses for rent are sought for the months of June, July and the first two weeks of August. If anyone has information about such types of housing, or can help in any way, contact Ron Danko, ext. 254.

Students who wish to rid themselves of pests may be interested in a free mini-course on pesticides now being offered by Hartnell College.

The three-week course, which began April 16, is designed to prepare people for the state pesticide certification exam on May 16.

The three weeks will cover pests, pesticide application and the categories touched upon in the state examination.

To enroll, contact Bob Kennedy at 758-8211. Two units of college credit are available and study material will be provided.

The Sixth Annual Hartnell College Racquetball Classic will be held May 4, 5, and 6. Entries must be in by 6 p.m., Monday, April 30.

Anyone may enter one of the five

Trask sets new marks at the Ed Adams meet

by Pam Edwards

Dashing off three first finishes, Hartnell's Phil Trask sparked the men's track team to an overwhelming victory in the Ed Adams Invitational track meet. Trask was named Outstanding Male Athlete of the meet.

The Hart men established four school records on their way to winning the 20-school meet, with an overwhelming score of 104.

Panther Phil Trask broke his own record of 21.2 with a 21.1 race in the 200 meter dash, with Claude Grady second in 21.7. Trask won the 100 meter dash in 10.5, and also ran a leg on the victorious sprint relay team.

The Panther women set a pair of records and finished seventh with 29 points. Yuba College edged Monterey with 96 points as Monterey finished second with 91 points.

Hartnell biology instructor Harold Huff broke the first Hartnell record finishing second in the 10,000 meter run in 32:52.1. The 3,000 meter steeple chase was won by Hartnell's Ricardo Vargas in a record setting 9:17.6.

Curtis Sells finished second in the 400 intermediate hurdles in 53.3, breaking James Thompson's existing school record of 54.8.

With a 71.3 time, Janet Johnson placed second in the 400 low hurdles.

Hart tennis squads racket wins, losses

With its victory over Menlo on April 17, the Panther men's tennis team has evened its Coast conference record at 5-5 and boosted its overall record to 7-5. On the other hand, the Hart women dropped a 9-0 decision to Menlo and lowered their Coast Conference tally to 6-3 and their overall record to 9-4.

The Panther men had a four-match win streak broken by Evergreen College on April 4 when they suffered a 6-3 loss. But on April 3, the Hart Maria Trujillo broke her existing school record in the 3,000 meter run with a 10:34.9 clocking.

Six other Panther women established new personal records. Mende Dew finished fourth in the shot put at 34-2 and Dorothy Harris took third in the javelin at 117-0. Dew also heaved the discus for a mark of 96-6 for sixth place.

Finishing sixth were: Belinda Sison with a 15-13 4 kap in the long jump; Pam Burkes in the 3,000 meter run with a 11:02.7 time; and Trujillo in the 1,500 meter run in the time of 4:54.3.

The crowd was treated to the expertise of former Olympic medalists John Powell and Brian Oldfield. Knut Hjeltnes defeated bronze medalist Powell with the second longest discus toss in the world this year, at 219-4. Powell threw 210-0.

Oldfield gave an exhibition in the discus with a toss of 202-1 and threw the shot put to 65-6 1 4.

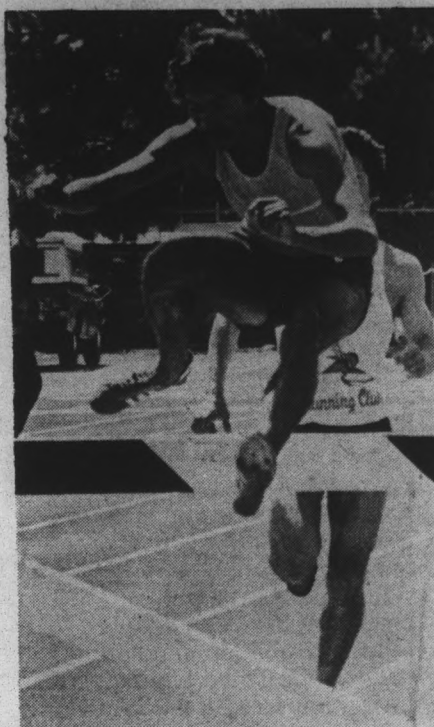

United States javelin record-holder Bruce Kennedy threw 237-11.

The men and women of the Panther track team will compete in the Merced Invitational tomorrow at 11 a.m. This will be a gear-up meet prior to the Coast Conference Championships at Skyline starting at 11 a.m. on April 28.

team avenged a loss to defending state champs Cabrillo by edging the Seahawks 5-4.

The Panther women had the tables turned on them when they journeyed to Cabrillo on April 4. The Seahawks pulled off a 5-4 win. Against Ohlone, on March 30, the Hart squad posted an easy 9-0 victory.

Today, April 20, the Panther men will travel to San Bruno while the women remain at Hartnell for their 2:30 match with Skyline.

Basemen ranked

With batting averages of .346, .343 and .321, sluggers Abe Beddow, Mike Chernetsky and Ben Jimenez are 11th, 12th and 17th in Coast Conference statistics.

Hurler Eric Rowe is fifth in pitching with an ERA of 2.08. Bob Mendiola has collected 12 RBI's, ranking first among the Panthers and second in the conference.

Tracksters keep pace

Two Hartnell runners are among the leaders in the state track and field events, according to the California Community College Track Coaches Association.

Pitching aids double wins

The Panther's overcame Coast Conference leaders Gavilan and a five-run lead by Menlo to post conference victories March 30 and April 2.

Pitcher Eric Rowe allowed three runs and 10 hits in the Panthers victory over Gavilan. Despite 10 hits, Gavilan posted only three runs to Hartnell's six.

Despite a five-run lead by Menlo early in the contest, the Panthers turned the tide against the team, emerging victorious 7-6.

The Panthers evened the score in the seventh inning, but Menlo recaptured the lead by a run in the eighth. A wild throw in the ninth by the Menlo pitcher decided the game, with Brian Richards scoring the winning run.

Hartnell starter Daryl Sinclair allowed five runs before reliever Rich Arredondo shut the door in the fourth. Arredondo allowed only one run.

On April 24 the Panthers will host Cabrillo at 2:30. The Hartnell team will travel to Ohlone on April 27 for a 2:30 p.m. clash.

Record-setting Johnson dusts hurdlers

by Diana Mar

The crowd roared her on as she cleared hurdle after hurdle, sweeping through the finishing line tape with a record-breaking time. Janet Johnson, the golden-haired phenomenon from Salinas high, has hit the Hartnell track scene like a bandit, claiming records one after another.

She entered her freshman year Hartnell with the serious contemplation of "really working hard" in her first college track season. She began training individually in September, indulging in moonlight runs and workouts. "I was planning to work-out in the fall so I'd be in shape for track," Ms. Johnson explained while flashing a friendly smile. "I was working out one night," she continued, a frown furrowing her brows, "I set up the hurdles. I guess I wasn't warmed-up enough, because I caught my feet on one of the hurdles, and landed on my feet wrong, tearing a ligament."

Ms. Johnson spent the next few months with her ankle encased in a cast. Then, several weeks into the track season, she began smashing previous records in the 100 and 400 meter hurdle events.

According to Ms. Johnson, she took time out from running for awhile following her accident. "I made sure I started out slowly," she commented. She also confessed that she was a bit apprehensive about getting back into hurdling. "Mainly, I was afraid of landing wrong on my ankle. I didn't want to mess it up again," said Ms. Johnson.

Ms. Johnson stated in high school, she went out for track solely for the "fun of it, and to meet the people on the other teams." This year however, "I'm putting out a lot more. I'm really psyched up, really planning to work out," she said. A thoughtful frown shadowed her face as she pondered her next statement. "I guess if you put out a lot more, you get a lot more out of it. I'm not as lazy this year."

The Hartnell record-breaker works out every day, rain or shine. During an especially hard work-out, "I'd wish it'd hurry up and get over with," she said. "But once I'm through, I feel really satisfied. I feel a lot better after a hard work-out rather than an easy one."

The hurdler plans to continue her career in track next year at Hartnell, and at a four-year college. "Track has been really satisfying," she commented. "It teaches us a lot about discipline. Sometimes I'm not in the mood for working-out, but I make myself. Track is really rewarding."

Doerfler splashes to records in championships

The Hartnell women's swimming team, with the help of record-breaker Katrina Doerfler, easily dominated the Coast Conference Swimming and Diving Championships held at Hartnell April 6 & 7.

The Panthers racked up 143 points, while Cabrillo took second with 87 points.

The men's squad placed fourth with 57 points. Cabrillo captured the title with 144.

Doerfler broke three individual records and was also on the three setting relay teams; the 50-yard backstroke with a 30.7 time, the 100-yard intermediate medley, with a meet and school record of 1:05.8; and the 100-yard backstroke in 1:07.43.

Also anchoring the record setting 400 and 200-yard freestyle relay teams, Doerfler swam a 55.1 leg in the 400 and a 25.5 in the 200. She broke the 400-relay record by 2.3 seconds and the 200 relay team set a new record with their 2:01.8 performance.

Pam Fugitt displayed winning form for Hartnell as she stroked to a first in the 50-yard breaststroke. Second place finishes came in the 500 freestyle and 100-yard backstroke. Fugitt, Patty Agee and Kathy Schramm were part of the winning relay combinations.

For the men, John Giacomazzi took third place honors in the one and three meter diving competition.

Charlie Cunha finished third in the 100-yard backstroke, 400-yard individual medley and the 200-yard individual medley.

The State Championships will be held on May 3, 4 and 5 at Ohlone College. Notching times good enough for automatic eligibility for the state meet were the women's 200 medley, 200 freestyle and 400 freestyle relay teams. Doerfler also qualified in the 100 individual medley and the 50 yard backstroke.

With three straight Coast Conference victories behind them, the Hartnell baseball team posted a 1-2 record in the Cuesta Invitational Baseball Tournament. The Panthers defeated Cabrillo 6-4 before falling to West Hills 8-2 and then losing their final game to Cuesta 5-3.

With a 7-1 win-loss record, the Panther golf team has stroked to within a game of conference leader Monterey.

With good performances by Kurt Dillard and Ron Davis, Ohlone fell prey to the Panthers 402-450. Dillard carded an 18 hole 75 to capture low medalist honors. Davis, not far behind, finished with a 78.

Against Cabrillo Dave Davis' two-over-par 74 led the Panthers to a 399-429 victory at the De Lavega golf course in Santa Cruz.

The Panthers will host Skyline at 1 p.m. April 24 at Fort Ord. The team will journey to the Rancho Canada Country Club to match strokes with Monterey Peninsula College at 1 p.m. on April 26.

'Abilities Week' ends; may return in '80

"The workshops were fantastic but the turnout was low. Even with that, we're going to try to turn this into a yearly event because the people want to return."

Wayne Davis summed up the Building on Abilities Week, which was held April 2-7. "We had six newspapers, TV and radio coverage, but still attendance was low through the week," Davis said.

Kenny Hall, a blind bluegrass fiddler, played fiddle, mandolin and other string instruments in the student lounge and mainstage theater. Hall's wife, Marta, and two other players formed the Long Haul String Band which provided entertainment during the week.

A pre-publicity barbecue was held March 28 in order to launch Abilities Week, and it was a success. "Bob Kelley, athletics director, and Merv Swigert, cafeteria manager, did a good job cooking and preparing the meal, even though it was done in the rain," Davis said. "They are super guys."

The wheelchair basketball game which capped the "Building on Abilities Week" was attended by Congressman Leon Panetta (D-Carmel Valley). Panetta presented the Most Valuable Player award to David Efferson of the Golden Spokes team from Palo Alto.

"It was a total success except for the low turnout," Davis concluded.
